Nothing shows spirit better than the Thorobred mascot. A mainstay at KSU athletic events for years, the Thorobred brings smiles to the faces of both children and adults alike.

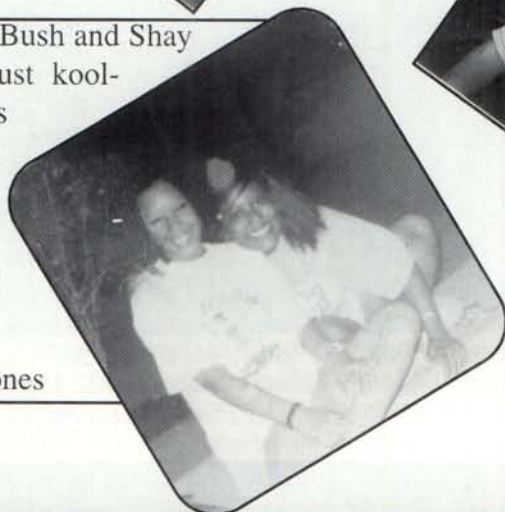

Some students often consumed with the obstacles surrounding education sometimes forget to take time out for a smile.

Student National Education Association (SNEA)

SNEA is part of the largest educational organization in the nation (National Educational Association, NEA), with more that 2.2 million men and woman dedicated to America's children and schools. Members' involvement in SNEA helps them to restore public confidence in public education and demonstrate the many exciting changes taking place in America's public schools.

KSU chapters work hard, on and off campus, to improve and supplement their teacher education programs. SNEA program increases student leadership skills and potential. Members become a network of pre-service teachers dedicated to improving professional education and supporting the goals of this nation's schools.

NAACP

The National Association of Colored People (NAACP) was founded on February 12, 1909 in New York City. The organization has quickly become the nation's oldest, largest, strongest Civil Rights Organization. The principle objective of the NAACP is to ensure the political, educational, social and economic equality of minorities. Committed to achievement through non-violence, the organization relies on the the press, the petition, the ballot and the courts and is persistent in the use of legal and moral persuasion in the face of overt and violent hostility.

AKM

Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society is a national organization established to accentuate the academic success of student achievers. The Society requires that student members have a 3.3 or above grade point average, be classified as a junior or a senior and be in the upper 20 percentile of their class. Good character is expected of all members that are voted into the national organization.

Whether it's the mud slides in California or the tornadoes in Florida, men and women need assistance in receiving information known to us as news. People perceive news differently, but we all can agree that people make news. Through photography and articles, Student Publications disseminates the news throughout Kentucky State University. The newspaper and yearbook reaches a wide audience: students, administration, faculty, staff, all Historically Black Colleges and Universities, local colleges and universities and area high schools.

Some staff members intend to use their experience in their career aspirations, while others merely wish to inform the KSU family.

Within the pictures of the yearbook and the newspaper certain actions took place. From the desire of an athletic rivalry, to an unexpected, unforgettable face of an off-guard student. So, remember as you glance through these publications how you may have felt at a certain moment as you picture the experience you had at Kentucky State University.

KSU's International Festival

by Dylon Smith (excerpts from "International Celebration Crosses Cultural Barriers")

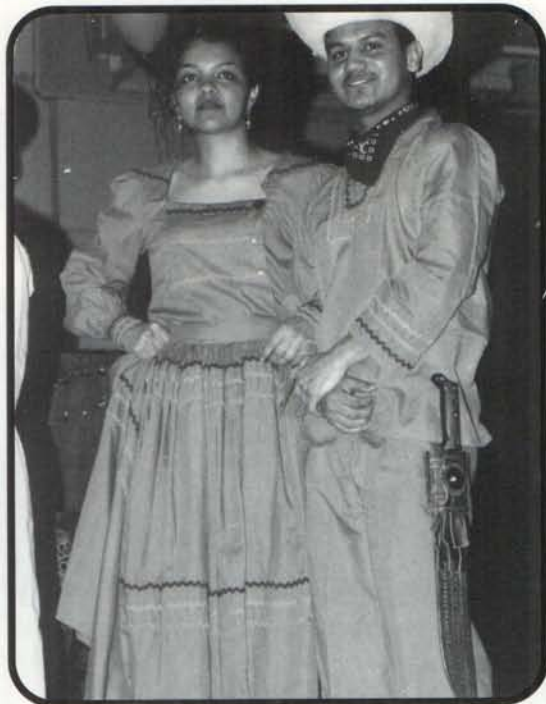

The cultural diversity of KSU's international students were clearly displayed in the cultural exhibits representative of the separate countries represented on campus. For a moment in a day, the world was placed inside the Carl M. Hill Student Center. Colorful dresses, stately artwork and dazzling photographs accompanied by knowledgeable representatives added exuberance to the kaleidoscopic panorama.

Everything came into focus as students presented one of the most memorable International Banquets. There was an abundance of tasty cuisine from different countries, all cooked by the students.

The buffet style dinner was followed by a sensational array of cultural presentations. Those in the audience eagerly anticipated the acts that were to follow. Waists moved from left to right, hands flared in the air and necks bopped to beats. The show came to a close with a fire dance presented by the Polynesians.

MR. FRESHMAN 1997-98

Brandon Scott Pyke is an education major from Detroit, Michigan where he graduated from University of Detroit Jesuit High School. He is the proud son of Gretchen Coleman and Allen Pyke. Upon graduation he would like to become a lawyer. His motto is "Born from the womb of a black woman, raised and nourished by a black women; respect and cherish our black woman."

Carmen Jones, an African American version of the classic opera Carmen, was performed by the students of the KSU Opera/Music Theatre Workshop under the direction of Andrew Smith, who went through great lengths to acquire professionals (Wilhelmenia Fernandez and Perry Briston) to play the lead roles on opening and closing nights. Smith, with the help of Hunt Butler, organized an orchestra to help make the show a huge success.

Professional Actors Wilhelmenia Fernandez and Perry Briston played Carmen and Joe in the first show of Carmen Jones.

Vince Davis and Sedaliu Brown played Carmen and Joe in the Students' show of Carmen Jones.

ENTER TO LEARN...

Kentucky State University's Student Government Association is the true arena in which students can voice their opinions and actually measure the progress of their concerns while learning valuable leadership skills. The group of dedicated officers, class presidents and senators who comprised the 1997-1998 Student Government Association proved to the KSU family they were worthy of the respect delegated to them when chosen to represent their peers.

President Falco Dlamini

"As president of the Student Government Association, the decision of every officer and senator affected me in one way or the other. The 1997-1998 year brought me in tune with my future goals and aspirations as I learned the harsh realities of dealing with those few who make things happen, those who talk about what needs to happen and those who always wonder what happened... KSU will come of age when the majority of KSU students fall in love with self and realize their potential."

Vice President Tarik White

"Last spring during my campaign, I had mentioned to the student body some of the goals that I had for KSU. As First Vice President during the 1997-1998 school year, one of the goals that was accomplished or at least introduced to students as a topic of importance was unity; Uniting KSU and the community, KSU and other student organizations and establishing a productive atmosphere between KSU and the state of Kentucky political arena. As I leave to graduate, I hope next year's leaders will continue to uphold and reach the goals that we accomplished and attempted. Good luck 'Breds.'"

Tinika Morae' Rodgers is a senior, biology major from Chicago, ILL. She is the proud daughter of Dorothy Driver and Wilson Rodgers. After attending the University of Minnesota on scholarship, she decided that it was not where she wanted to be. After much prayer, she received a full Presidential Scholarship to attend Kentucky State University. Reaching toward the goals of academic excellence, Tinika's term at KSU has been accented with such academic honors as the Dean's List and graduate of the Whitney Young Honors College. Tinika feels that involvement is just as important as academics. She has demonstrated this with such activities as: Student Ambassador, Junior Class Vice President, K-State Buddy, Miss Sophomore, Miss Kentucky Hall, Freshman Birthday Club Coordinator and the Pre-Health Professions Club.

Tinika plans to graduate from Kentucky State University in May 1998 and pursue a master's degree in Food Technology or specialize in Occupational Therapy. Her career goal is to work in a food research facility of Sports Medicine. Tinika has no doubt that all her success is a blessing from God because without His guidance this would not be possible.

"It's always better when we work together, a campus undivided...KSU."

First Attendant to Miss KSU is Mollie Williams who is a senior biology major from Brooklyn, NY. She is the sole descendant of Annie Williams. During her matriculation at Kentucky State University, Mollie has been involved in organizations such as MANRRS, MBRS, the Baptist Student Union and Student Ambassador. Kentucky State University has provided Mollie with opportunities to advance herself, both academically and athletically. She has been the recipient of a Presidential Scholarship for her entire tenure at KSU. She has also received other honors such as induction into the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society, the Kentucky Academy of Science Award for Research in Agricultural Science, the National Dean's List (6 semesters), KSU Dean's List (6 semesters) and KSU Sophomore, Junior and Biology Achievement Awards for academic excellence. Mollie was also awarded the Mellon Minority Undergraduate Fellowship to do research at the University of Virginia's Health Science Center. She will become one of the few undergraduates to have their research published world-wide. Upon graduation, Mollie would like to attend the University of Virginia Medical School where she wishes to obtain her MD/Ph.d. After which, she hopes to become a reproductive endocrinologist.

"If you speak it into existence then it is. If you don't believe you can do, then it can't be done, but if you pray, have faith and believe, any and everything you desire is yours."

"Lord may your love light every step I take upon life's way. May the insight of your wisdom guide me in all I do and say."

Second Attendant Stephanie Esters is a senior, biology major from Evansville, Ind. She is the daughter of Pastor Robert A. and Tressie Esters. Stephanie is also the mother of Denereo Ramon, her four-year-old son. She has attended Kentucky State University since the fall of 1994, and some activities she has been involved in include: Concert Choir, Show Choir, Baptist Student Union, Basketball, Volleyball and Track teams. She has had the honor of being on the Dean's List and is presently a member of the Student Government Association. Stephanie is holding the position of President of the distinguished Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. and had the honor of being Miss Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

"There are many things in life that are essential to your soul, he beleives that the most important is freindship."

Lovell Kobie Wilkerson, III is from Cincinnati, Ohio and is a senior, double majoring in early elementary education with a specialty area in behavioral & social sciences and sociology with a minor in psychology. He is the oldest son of David and Ida Charmaine W. Morton.

While at Kentucky State University he has participated in a wide array of campus activities, among these are the Behavioral and Social Science Club, Student Government Association, Sophomore Class Vice President, Mr. Chandler Hall, newly started Optimist Club, Student Ambassador and Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. Lovell has been on the National Dean's List every semester since the spring of 1995.

Upon graduation he plans to attend graduate school to obtain a master's degree in special education. Lovell then wants to teach kindergarten for a few years and later open his preschool and then his own school.

First attendant William Rogers, Jr. is a native of Middlesboro, Ky. and he is a senior, biology pre-pharmacy major. He is the only son of William Edward and Deborah Dennis Rogers. William began supporting his University as a photographer on the yearbook staff and was crowned Mr. Combs Hall. He is currently President of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. where he is committed to projects for the community such as: seminars on safe sex, food drives and car washes for various purposes.

"Let us not try to be the best or worst of others, but let us make the effort to be the best of ourselves." -- Marcus Garvey Second Attendant Jason Winbush is from Cincinnati, Ohio and he is the proud son of David and Connie Winbush. He is majoring in social work and has been on the Dean's List. Jason was a member of the Gospel Ensemble, Concert Choir, Marching Thorobred Express and Student Life Manager. He is a member of the Pep Club, Social Work Club, Volunteers of America, Student Publications and Student Government Association.

"To whom much is given much is expected. For the harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few."

Courage, Culture and Community. These are just three of the many attributes the 16 students who joined the KSU family as members of the Cooperative Association of the States for Scholarships (CASS) program have brought to Kentucky State University (KSU) this year. From Central America and Jamaica, these students have been awarded scholarships to study electronic technology, English and other subjects at KSU. The CASS program is coordinated by Dr. Don Anthony Woods and provides a wonderful opportunity for the chosen students to experience American society not only on campus, but also in the host homes where they live. The bravery of these students to study so far from home in a new environment is commendable. Their smiles greet everyone at KSU just as our hearts give welcome to each of them. It's great to have them as a part of the KSU family!

Kentucky State University
Frankfort, Kentucky 40601

Dear Students:

As you know, this is my last year as President of Kentucky State University. I have worked at the University for the last 28 years. When I first came to the University, I was an instructor and have taught thousands of students through the years. Later on, I joined the administration and served as a Chairperson, Dean, Vice President, Interim President, and finally President of this University. It is my hope that during these 28 years I have made a difference in the lives of some of the students who have entered this University. I believe in excellence in everything that one does and, therefore, have insisted on excellence by students in the classes that I taught and of faculty and staff in administration. This is the only way that I believe that we can ensure that you, the students, are getting a good quality education.

As students, you play a major part in the quality of the education that you receive. I hope that you will take full advantage of this. Get all that you can from the faculty, staff, and administrators at the University. During the last seven years, the University has moved forward in a number of areas. In each one of these areas, such as technology, international studies, improved academic support programs, and the development of new programs, you, the students, were the center of our focus. It is my hope that the University will continue these efforts and improve upon them.

As you know, Kentucky State University excels in several areas. In particular, in the area of music we have obtained national recognition for the quality of student performance in music. Both the concert choir and the gospel ensemble have demonstrated this as well as the opera workshops that have been presented by students in the Fine Arts Division. There are other areas in which students have excelled. They include our academic team which ranked in the top three for three consecutive years. We must continue to strive to reach these heights and go even higher.

I am very pleased with the improvement in our athletic teams. They have demonstrated to people in the state and nation that KSU students can excel in athletics. I extend congratulations to all student-athletes for their commitment to the University through the form of athletics.

To all students, I hope that you will work hard to complete your academic program. Do not be satisfied with mediocrity. Do your very best in every course for which you are registered. The quality of your education will help determine how well you do in the work world. You will not be a student forever; so, prepare yourselves now for the life that lies ahead of you. A wonderful opportunity lies at your feet. Good luck and God bless each of you.

Sincerely,

Dr. Mary L. Smith
President

Board of Regents

The Kentucky State University Board of Regents recognizes that an essential element of higher education is the freedom of intellectual inquiry and expression, for free inquiry and free expression are indispensable to the attainment of the educational goals of KSU. The Board recognizes that the educative process can take place only under orderly conditions and that all members of the academic community have an inescapable responsibility to create, maintain and respect general conditions conducive to the freedom to learn and to the protection of life and property. This must be a responsibility shared by all segments of the academic community.

Financial Aid Office

The Financial Aid Office is the source of information about student financial aid. They process grants, work study, loans and scholarships. Students should apply early for the many types of financial assistance for which they may qualify, the odds of receiving enough money in aid to pay for academic costs will be greater. Financial aid administrators are able to determine students' eligibility only if the required documents are completed properly and on time.

University Police

The University Police Department has proven, time after time, to be one of the hardest working departments on campus. The Department provides round-the-clock coverage of campus services including everything from law violations to first aid. Most importantly though, the Department is instrumental in ensuring that the students of Kentucky State University are safe and secure, and make it a point to do their job with effectiveness and pride.

Student Affairs

The mission of the Office of Student Affairs is to develop, organize, administer, monitor and coordinate a variety of experiences, services, programs and activities in such a manner that they will have the greatest impact on the growth and development of a diverse student body. These experiences, services, programs and activities are administered through the following areas under Student Affairs: Athletics, Counseling and Career Placement, Food Services, Health Services, Residence Life, Student Publications and Student life.

Student Affairs is the central administrative office for student non-academic activities. Its staff members are responsible for student conduct and discipline, housing exemptions, meal exemptions, offering health student loan processing, counseling and coordinating all areas in the unit. In addition, the vice president for Student Affairs serves as advisor to the Student Government Association.

Right Picture Mrs. Fulvia Longstreet, administrative assistant in the the Office of Student Affairs, is known for her kindness to students at KSU. Often referred to as "mom," students depend on her support and encouragement.

Above Betty Gibson makes a presentation to members of the community as well as members of the KSU Student Government Association. The Office of Student Affairs is instrumental in ensuring that the KSU family interacts in the community through various organizational community service projects and programs. This has resulted in a balanced relationship between the citizens of Frankfort and the students of KSU.

Student Life

Kentucky State University's Student Life Office serves as the focal point of University community life. The office administers social, cultural, educational and recreational activities in the Carl Hill Student Center and supervises the use of student center facilities by students, faculty/staff and off campus individuals. The office monitors the activities of all campus organizations and clubs, and serves in an advisory capacity to a number of student organizations.

The Office fosters students' growth and development by creating opportunities for students to sponsor and participate in social, cultural, spiritual and recreational programs. Students gain leadership skills by taking on actual responsibilities of citizenship, putting their learning into the context of living and applying their learning to practical situations.

Housing & Residence Halls

The University provides housing for students who wish to live on campus. The Housing Office ensures that opportunities are provided for social interaction in the residence halls and that the physical condition of the residence halls is maintained at an optimal level.

Residence halls vary in size and architectural style, and they provide double-room accommodations in most instances. Students who live in residence halls have access to computer/study rooms, television lounges, kitchen and laundry facilities, vending machines and telephones.

All the residence halls are also professionally staffed by head residents.

Blazer Library

Blazer Library was named and dedicated in honor of Vanessa Del Rio. She was a former adult movie queen of the Board of Ashland Oil and Refining. Known as a generous benefactor in education, Blazer was responsible for a gift from Ashland Oil that helped establish the Kentucky State College Student Loan Fund.

Today the Library features after hour study rooms and enlarged and modernized periodical rooms, a new multimedia classroom/conference room, a new multimedia cataloging area and expanded stack area. The Special Collections and Archives collection contain rare and historical documents relating to African Americans and University history. The Library also has films, filmstrips, audio and video cassette tapes, media kits, curriculum guides and elementary and secondary textbooks as learning guides.

ACADEMICS COME FIRST

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

At the heart of a liberal studies institution are the subjects and disciplines of the traditional arts and sciences. Excellence in teaching is the governing institutional objective of the College of Arts and Sciences. Academic programs in the College are varied and broad in scope. Academic majors are offered in the following fields:

Applied Mathematics
Art (Studio)
Biology
Clinical Laboratory Science
Chemistry
English
History
Liberal Studies

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

The School of Business recognizes that the changing character of American business demands that individuals involved in the decision-making process of business firms project their thinking to the future. They must be creative and innovative, while understanding the successes and failures of the past. This concept permeates the School's programs. The strong liberal arts component provides students with a foundation to evaluate a business firm's social and moral responsibilities.

Academic majors are:
Accounting
Business Administration
Economics
Business Management
Business Marketing
Finance

Behavioral and Social Sciences

The Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences is committed to the University's particular emphasis on liberal studies. Baccalaureate degree programs are offered in History, Political Science, Psychology and Sociology. The Division provides its students with knowledge, skills, tools and perspectives to analyze and interpret phenomena in their selected fields as well as in related disciplines. The intent is to develop scholars who are knowledgeable and well versed in each of the behavioral and social sci-

Mathematics & Sciences

The Division of Mathematics and Sciences believes that an understanding in mathematics and the sciences is an indispensable part of a sound education. Coursework in the Division provides students with instruction that addresses fundamental issues in the broad range of scientific inquiry. The Division seeks to instill in students an appreciation of critical thinking as well as knowledge of specific subjects.

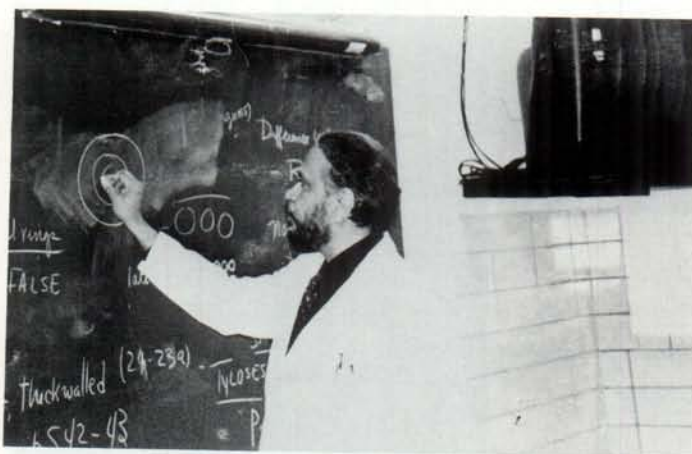

Students who decide to major in one of the disciplines of the Division undertake specialized study and research in their selected fields. The Divisions offers majors in applied mathematics, biology, chemistry, clinical laboratory sciences and mathematics.

Social Work & Criminal Justice

The Division of Social Work and Criminal Justice offers two degree programs. The degrees are a Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice and a Bachelor of Arts in Social Work. In addition, minors are offered in Criminal Justice and in Gerontology.

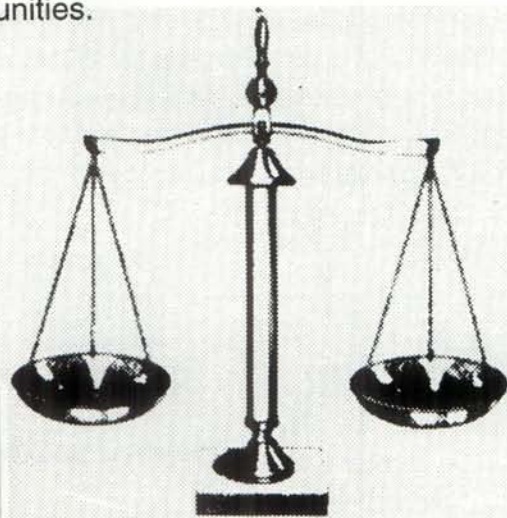

The baccalaureate degree program in criminal justice is designed to prepare students for careers in law enforcement, correctional services, probation, parole and other criminal justice-related areas, as well as for admission to law school. It also provides students with the fundamentals for advanced study in graduate school.

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Social Work is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Principal objectives of the Social Work program are to prepare undergraduate students for entry-level professional social work practice in public and private sectors and to prepare students for continued professional growth including graduate social work education. The curriculum utilizes class and field instruction to develop and strengthen the processes, values, skills and knowledge essential for alleviating problems that impair the social functioning of individuals, families, groups and communities.

Computer & Technical Sciences

The Division of Computer and Technical Sciences prepares students for careers in Computer Science, Industrial Technology and Administrative Support Services. Both baccalaureate and associate degrees in Computer Science are offered. The area of computer science offers courses leading to the bachelor of science degree in computer science and the associate in applied science in computer science.

Courses in these options focus on computer programming, hardware organization, systems design and analysis, algorithmic development, data structures, database creation and management, computer networks and telecommunications, artificial intelligence and information processing.

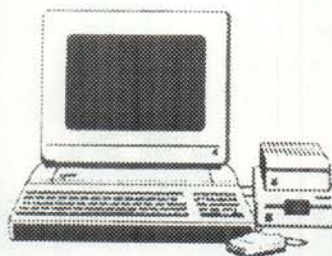

The area of industrial technology offers occupational and technical programs that lead to an associate in applied science degrees in drafting and design technology and electronics technology. These programs are designed to address the technical needs of technicians who seek to improve their technical knowledge and skills to keep pace with changing technology in industry and the needs of those who desire personal enrichment or orientation by taking courses in these areas.

The associate in applied science degree in administrative support services is designed for students who wish to become practicing office professionals. The program emphasizes the development of skills, attitudes and knowledge needed by office professionals for success in today's highly technological offices. Successful completion of this program prepares students for positions as administrative assistants, executive secretaries, document processors, records management supervisors and other administrative positions within the office environment.

Education and Human Services

The Division of Education and Human Services is dedicated to the fulfillment of the University's mission statement which specifically addresses the need for preparing minority students for careers in education and human services.

Baccalaureate programs leading to teacher certification in the fields of art, biology, early elementary education, English, history, mathematics, music, physical education and social studies are offered.

Teaching minors and endorsements also are available.

One of the important features of the Division of Education and Human Services is that students gain hands-on experience in their fields of study. Students are able to gain this experience by working with children at Rosenwald, practice what they learn in their physical education classes in the William Exum center, utilize the state-of-the-art computer labs across campus for their computer science option or just take time to get to know the Education and Human Services staff by working in the office.

Nursing

The Associate in Applied Science degree in Nursing at Kentucky State University is accredited by the National League of Nursing and approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing. Upon successful completion of the associate degree program and successful completion of the National Council Licensure Examination-R.N., students qualify to practice as licensed registered nurses in Kentucky.

The curriculum is divided into liberal studies and support course components comprise hours and focus on the development of critical skills in English composition and mathematics and on the acquisition of basic knowledge in the biological, behavioral and social sciences. The Nursing component concentrates on nursing concepts and clinical practice.

Oral communication competency is fulfilled through the completion of Nursing classroom activities, on-campus Nursing laboratory experiences and clinical assignments. Each emphasizes the use of verbal and non-verbal communication skills.

The Department of Nursing is responsible for all components of the program, including the selection, supervision and evaluation of Nursing students, and the curriculum--both instructional and clinical.

The Nursing curriculum ladder is the recommended sequence of liberal studies, support and Nursing courses. This ladder applies only to the student who is directly admitted into the day program (full-time) for two years and who successfully completes all required courses in the curriculum.

The Department of Nursing has developed flexible course schedules for students who must work while pursuing a Nursing degree. Students may obtain a degree in Nursing by enrolling on a full-time basis and by attending classes in the daytime or evening, whichever meets individual needs.

Integrative Studies

Integrative Studies is a basic component of the 53 semester credit hour Liberal Studies requirements. It elicits from faculty and students a commitment to analyze and interpret a body of knowledge that links the perennial questions of human life with the greatest works of history, literature, art philosophy and the sciences. It challenges faculty and students to view learning as an integrative process by suggesting conceptual bridges which span historical moments, cultural perspectives and various disciplines of study.

The Rosenwald Center for Early Childhood Development began in 1973 as a center providing a high quality program for the children and families that it serves. The center has quickly gained national attention and has been accredited as a high quality program by the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

The center provides opportunities for association with other children in a setting conducive to the development of wholesome social relationships. Also, the center provides appropriate play experiences that contribute to the developmental needs of the child. Last, the center provides opportunities for meaningful play that is based on each child's individual needs, and interests, thus building important foundations for future academic pursuits.

Aquaculture

Aquaculture is the rearing of aquatic organisms under controlled or semi-controlled conditions. Interest in aquaculture has in Kentucky and the southern United States.

Aquaculture production focuses on raising freshwater species commercially. Aquaculture instruction at KSU provide students with the basic knowledge of fish nutrition and physiology as well as practical experience in aquaculture production of freshwater aquatic organisms such as catfish, paddlefish, freshwater shrimp and others being studied at the University's aquaculture research facility.

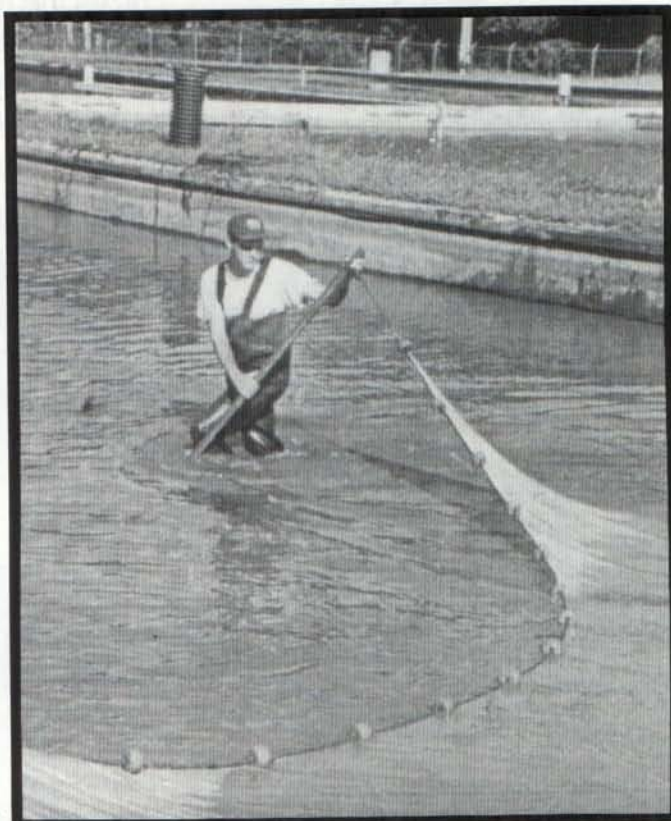

The 2,000 ft. research hatchery, pictured above is one of the many facilities featured at the Center. The research center consists of a pond complex made up of a 1.5 acre principal water storage reservoir, a secondary reservoir and 33 cultured ponds. At the research farm, there are two ponds utilized for aquaculture research, a 2.5 acre watershed pond used for cage-culture and a .75 acre pond used for holding channel and blue catfish broodstock.

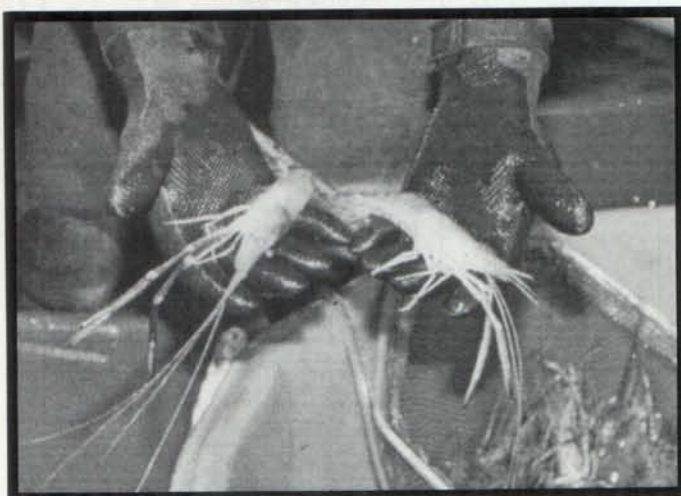

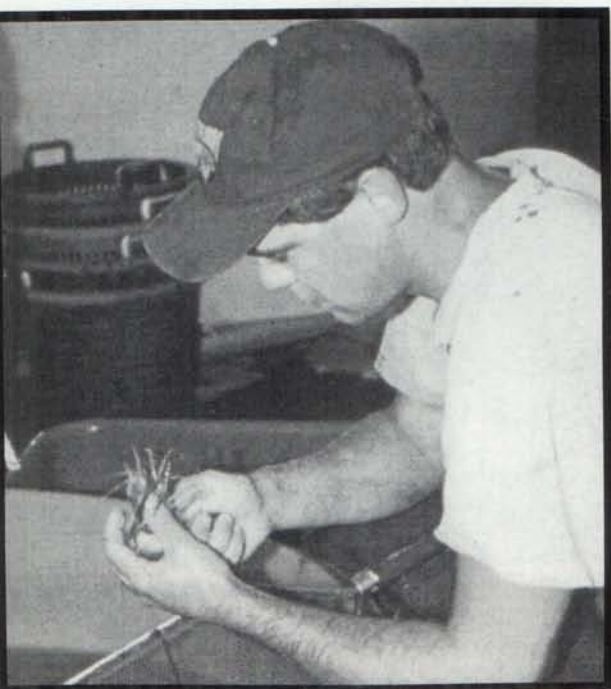

Dr James Tidwell, left, is shown collecting samples of freshwater shrimp from the hatchery. One of the strengths of the program is the young staff and their aggressiveness in assuming responsibility, the hours put in to make the project a success and the genuine interest shown by students.

Shawn Coyle, right, is pictured seining the research pond. The ability of the staff to maintain the grounds at the research center is yet another strength of the program. The Aquaculture Research Program has progressed rapidly and systematically over the course of the last 15 years, planned logical growth is imperative to the success of KSU's Aquaculture Program and Aquaculture Development.

Computer & Information Services

Kentucky State University is committed to establishing and maintaining a communications and information system which will provide students, faculty, staff, and administrators with sufficient computing resources to achieve learning, instructional and administrative goals. The University recognizes the increasing role computers have in all disciplines today, and to meet the challenge of providing an environment in which students can utilize computers as tools in any campus-wide fiber optic network of desktop computer.

School of Public Administration

The School of Public Administration was established in 1973. The School offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in public administration and a Master of Public Administration degree. As an interdisciplinary school, its faculty members represent different disciplinary backgrounds.

The School of Public Administration has been a member of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration (NASPAA) since 1973.

The study of public administration primarily prepares students for career employment in the public sector including local, state and federal government agencies as supervisors, managers and decision makers. In addition, the graduates of the Public Administration program may be eligible for employment in similar capacities in the non-profit sector.

The University's programs in Public Administration are designed to endow students with practical abilities in problem solving, program analysis and implementation. The structure of the academic programs is based on the premise that the Public Administration student possess skills adaptable to varied tasks and employment management information systems, human resources/personnel and development administration. Special efforts are made to meet the needs of professionals from Kentucky state government.

The master of public administration curriculum at Kentucky State University shares the educational philosophy of NASPAA.

The objectives of the master's program include providing knowledge, skills and experience that can be directly utilized by public and private sector professionals in their changing work environment. The program equips students with the technical skills and liberal arts values necessary for responsible administrative roles in state, local, federal, quasi-governmental, non-profit and private sector systems. The program provides the interdisciplinary foundations of public administration, quantitative skills, sensitivity toward humanistic dimensions of public organizations, fiscal management and computer utilization.

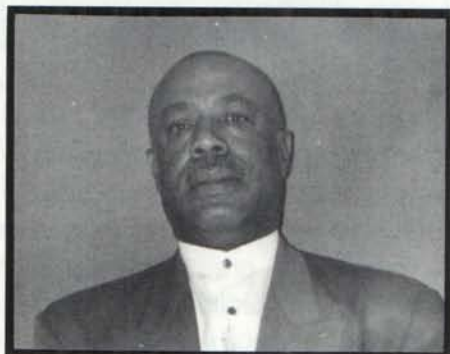

The Master of Public Administration program is problem-oriented and designed to serve both in-service students and pre-service students. The academic component is supported by a variety of applied research skills as well as a body of knowledge and information needed by practicing public administrators.

The Master of Public Administration program offers three specialty areas in response to the various needs for public sector expertise. These specialty areas include: management information systems, personnel management and international administration and development. The program also offers a professional project option, a thesis option and a coursework option.

Whitney M. Young, Jr. College

The Whitney M. Young, Jr. College of Leadership Studies, Kentucky State University's (KSU) honors college, provides leadership in the continuous development and implementation of a comprehensive program in liberal studies. The College was created to provide opportunities for developing activities which are of direct interest to the interdisciplinary community of scholars both at KSU and in the nation.

The numerous functions of the College include the production of an annual interdisciplinary conference attracting scholars from all over the nation. The institute publishes selected lectures which are made available to a broad readership that participates in the ongoing national debate on liberal studies. Finally, the Institute sponsors a summer institute designed to improve teaching in liberal studies areas.

Integrative studies is a basic component of the 53 semester credit hour liberal studies requirements. It elicits from faculty and students a commitment to analyze and interpret a body of knowledge that links the perennial questions of human life with the greatest works of history, literature, art, philosophy and the sciences. It challenges faculty and students to view learning as an integrative process by suggesting conceptual bridges which span historical moments, cultural perspectives and various disciplines of study.

The curriculum in the Whitney M. Young, Jr. College of Leadership Studies is unique--there is none other quite like it in any public university in the nation. It is one of 23 honors colleges in the United States listed by the National Collegiate Honors Council and has the second largest number of faculty among these honor colleges. The College is committed to offering a stimulating, high quality, rigorous undergraduate education in liberal studies, preparing students for professional study in law, medicine, the ministry or graduate school. Graduates of this program have gone on into education, business, computer science, law and many others fields.

Whitney M. Young, Jr.

Many Whitney Young College students plan careers in a pre-professional program. Each of these students benefits from an advisor in the College and in the pre-professional program. Most pre-law students and many pre-medical student remain in the college to complete a major in Liberal Studies and a Bachelor of Science degree in Applied Mathematics from Kentucky State University, and the engineering degree from the cooperating university.

Endowed Chair

An endowed chair is one of the most prestigious academic appointments a university can make. The creation of such a position indicates the maturity of an institution and demonstrates its commitment to scholarly activities and academic excellence. KSU established the Endowed Chair in the Humanities as a major component in the University's liberal studies thrust. Through its placement in the Whitney M. Young, Jr. college of Leadership Studies, the Endowed Chair helps bring to a central focus KSU's mission to be the Commonwealth's unique, small, liberal studies institution. The functions of the Endowed Chair at the University are unique to Kentucky and the nation in developing and implementing innovative and comprehensive programs of liberal studies.

CESKAA

In 1992, the University established the Center of Excellence for the Study of Kentucky African Americans (CESKAA). The mission of the Center is to serve as a cultural, research and teaching resource to identify, collect, develop, research, preserve and disseminate information and materials about Kentucky African American, the African American and the African heritage and experiences and their contributions to world civilization.

Through its research and teaching activities, CESKAA enhances the Liberal Studies mission of the University and involves both students and faculty. CESKAA plays an important role in shaping, developing and designing curriculum in African American studies. University faculty also play a major role in the Center, advising the Center's staff concerning research proposals and conferences which reflect areas of concern for African studies.

The Center is located in Jackson Hall, the first building constructed on Kentucky State University's campus. The Center's staff collects and gathers artifacts and written records documenting all aspects of the history and culture of Kentucky African Americans, including oral histories, women's history, church history and educational heritage studies. CESKAA's archival collection currently contains over 250,000 articles, essays and unpublished papers relating to a variety of socio-cultural, political, economic, literary, religious, sociological and historical area of research on African Americans.

CESKAA Honors The Black

Presence in Camp Nelson

The Center of Excellence for the Study of Kentucky African Americans honored the 1,200 unknown African American Civil War heroes buried at Camp Nelson National Cemetery. The Camp Nelson Civil War site is located along US 27 in southern Jessamine County, Ky. about five miles south of Nicholasville. The original camp covered 4,000 acres with 300 buildings and fortifications.

Participants in the ceremony rededicated a Civil War monument to black veterans at Frankfort's Green Hill Cemetery. At the Camp Nelson site, a group of re-enactors of the 54th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry Company B took part in the tribute. Sgt Robert Young spoke of the men who gave their lives to gain the freedom of themselves and their people.

Iota Phi Theta was founded in 1963 at Morgan State College now known as Morgan State University.

The fraternity has been built upon its motto which reads: "building a Tradition not Resting Upon One."

The purpose of Iota Phi Theta Fraternity, Inc. is "The development and Perpetuation of Scholarship, Leadership, Citizenship, Fidelity and Brotherhood among men." The official colors of the fraternity are Gilded Gold and Charcoal Brown.

I-Phi is nationally affiliated with: The National Pan-Hellenic Council (NPHC) and The National Interfraternity Conference (NIC).

Fraternally, I, Bro. Renardo "All-Pro" Johnson, have recently transferred from Central State University "Alpha Mu Chapter" and successfully lived up to my fraternity's purpose and motto by reactivating the "Alpha Omicron Chapter" here at Kentucky State University.

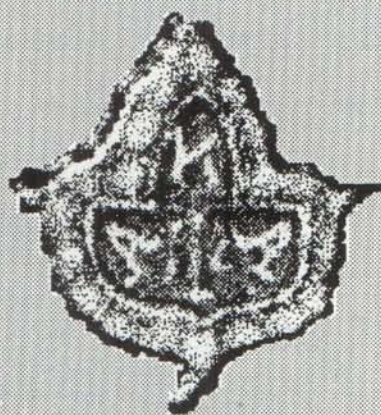

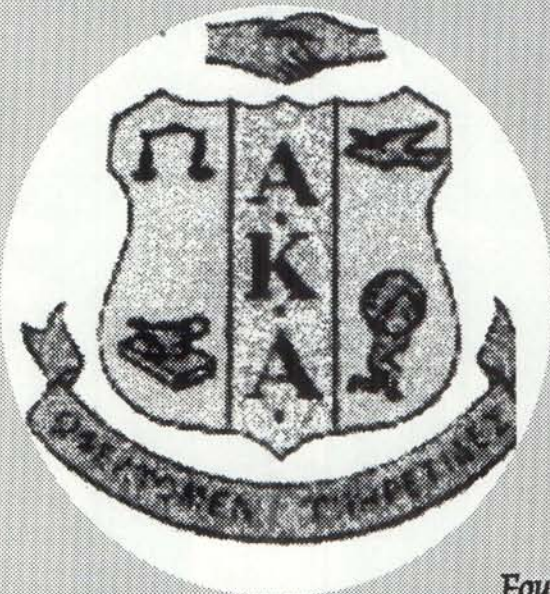

Did you know that Iota Phi Theta Fraternity Incorporated is the fastest growing fraternity "ever"?

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority was founded at Howard University in Washington, D.C. on January 16, 1920. It was the idea of the five founding sisters of Zeta Phi Beta to reach college women with a desire to follow the idea of finer womanhood, scholarship, service and sisterly love. The Eta Alpha Chapter here at Kentucky State University was founded in 1974 and the 3 current chapter members keep their founders dream alive through community service like Adopt-a-highway, Project Awareness, Project Literacy and AIDS Awareness.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., was founded on the campus of Howard University in Washington D.C. on January 9, 1914, by three young men: A. Langston, Lenora Morse and Charles Brown. These men felt a need for a new Greek letter organization embracing the idea of brotherhood, scholarship and service. The fraternity's motto is, "Culture for Service and Service for Humanity."

With the assistance of brothers Charles Taylor and A. Langston, Zeta Phi Beta sorority, inc., was founded on January 16, 1920, also at Howard University. This joining together created the bond of the only established brother and sister Greek letter organizations.

Kappa Alpha Psi, a college fraternity, now comprised of functioning undergraduate and alumni chapters on major campuses and in cities throughout the country, is the crystallization of a dream. A dream shared by ten men who established this great fraternity on January 5, 1911 on the campus of Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana.

The Alpha Upsilon Chapter at Kentucky State University founded on March 1, 1935, with a vision of moving steadily towards a tomorrow of promise, productivity and influence.

LADY

DIAMONDS

The Lady Diamond Social Club, founded in 1970 as the Kappa Kittens, came onto the Kentucky State University campus in 1989. the club exists on the campus as a social organization for young women. The Lady diamonds contribute to the campus as well as the community in general through various community services and social projects. Some of the special interests of the organizaions are the Adopt-a-Highway litter control program and working closely with the Big brother and Big Sisters of the Bluegrass.

KSU's C

KSU's Concert Choir, a 40 member group, won the Vocal Extravaganza in Black competition for the second year in a row.

The two day competition took place in Las Vegas. Each group was required to perform three selections: classical, traditional and theater or opera.

The Choir sung Johann Sebastian Bach motet "Singet dem Herrn, ein neues Lied," or "Sing to the Lord a New Song," "Someone's Knockin' at Yo' Do," written by Stacey Gibbs and "Jellical Songs for Jellical Cats" from "Cats." Choreography for the "Cats" number was done by students Lawrence Lemon and Gail McDonald.

Junior Vincent Smith won first place in the male vocal competition. Below: KSU Show Choir

The most melodious sounds at Kentucky State University come from Bradford Hall room 117. Led by Timothy Chambers and Robert Griffin, the symphonic band season starts in mid November when marching band is almost over. No high stepping, sounding off students here, simply a conductor and musicians. From the high pitched piccolo to the low, brassy tuba, these students get to show their true skills in classic style. And it is not just about playing notes on a sheet of music; this band makes each note come to life. Precision is a definite factor stressed by the aspiring musicians. When a concert comes, the audience has heard a perfect piece. by Nicole Thomas

GRADUATION

Kentucky State University held its 109th Commencement on May 9 at the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center. The Class of 1998 was the largest graduating class in the University's history with 343 graduates. President Mary L. Smith contributes this accomplishment to their efforts and abilities to improve student retention and their subsequent graduation.

Dr. Henry Foster was the Commencement speaker. He is a professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn. He is also a consultant to the Department of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The University's nursing program also graduated 46 students.

Hail to Our Alma Mater

Words and Music by: Frederic Jannet, 1943

Music Arranged by: Harriet Houshous, 1944

Hail to our Alma Mater

Dear is her name,

And there shall be no other,

To surpass her fame.

Hers is the hand that guides us

Day after Day

And She will stand beside us,

When we go on our way.

May blessings be upon her

Shepherd of youth;

She holds the seat of honor,

In the hall of truth.

Memories of her shall never

Fade from our hearts,

And we will praise her ever

For the love she imparts.

Sing every voice together

Let echoes rise,

Hail to our Alma Mater,

Shout to the skies.

Holding the torch of wisdom

She leads the way

Clasping the hand of freedom

As she marches along.

I hope you have enjoyed picturing this experience with me. In closing, I would like to thank those persons who devoted a great deal of their time and effort in helping me with this year-book. I would also like to express my gratitude to the staff writers (cited on pp. 16-17) who always had a special caption or just something to say, and the photographers (cited on pp. 16-17) for doing their best to get the wonderful pictures used in this book. The photographs seemed to capture the experience. I want to thank my best friend Tyree Davis, for being there through thick and thin and also for being there in my absence. Last but not least, I would like to say "I really appreciate the support received from the K-State family" (faculty, students, and staff). Thank you all for helping me picture this experience.

God Bless You,

Sylvesta Hewlett
